history of Japanese art is the first period, before artifacts were made in urse of daily life. In the period, starting after and extending to the sixth , the arts developed under rection of the ruler of the nity.

"In the third period, from the sixth century to the thirteenth century, the arts were encouraged by the religious powers. This period is sometimes called the age of Buddhist art.

"In the fourth period, from the fourteenth century to the nineteenth century, the arts were separated from the religious powers and became an expression of the individual. At first the promoters of art were courtiers, then generals, and last, millionaires.

"The fifth period is the present age, and it is said that this is the age when artists have an independent position.

"The characteristics of Japanese art, which has such a long history, are so difficult to explain since Japanese art was greatly influenced by Korea and China and since it is very difficult to distinguish Japanese art from the others. But Japan is not merely an imitator of the continental arts. You must remember the fact that the tea ceremony and flower arrangement did not develop in Korea or in China but only in Japan, although both of these arts originated in those countries."

The Most Important Characteristics Of Japanese Art

"Well, then, what are the characteristics of Japanese art? I will point out only three of the most important characteristics of Japanese art.

"First: the beauty of simple form. Second: the beauty of unbalanced form. Third: the beauty of unfinished form.

Officials Predict 1962 Completion

The Board of Directors of the Toronto Japanese Canadian Centre announced this week it has drawn up a schedule on the many phases necessary prior to completing the Centre. The report indicated that the Centre's completion is set for alternate dates of October 1961 and March 1962.

The schedule was made after a careful study of the relationship between funds available at a given period to the time required for purchase of site, design and construction.

This schedule will act as a guide and will enable the many groups now working on the Centre to plan their respective programs to the dates given herewith.

LAND PURCHASE

September 1961—The Building Planning Committee was instructed to make every effort to complete the purchase of a site by this date.

DESIGN, WORKING DRAWINGS

December 1961—Pre-planning work by Architect, Raymond Moriyama, is now in progress it was revealed. Moriyama was given instruction to work very closely with the Program Planning and the Building Planning Committees to study further and determine the exact type of building best suited to meet the requirements of the community.

CALL FOR TENDERS

January 1961—Contractors will be requested to make bids—one for Summer and another for Winter construction. The return of bids and approval of contracts is expected to be made by April of 1961.

CONSTRUCTION

The committees are planning construction of the Centre to begin in May, 1961 to be completed by October 1961, or start October 1961 and see its completion by March 1962.

Two dates were given for the start of actual construction—if the tenders called for Summer construction is more favorable for work by contractors during the Winter months . . . the Centre is expected to be completed by the Fall of 1961. On the other hand, if Winter construction is less costly, the completion date then, is set for the Spring of 1962.

The schedule released by Centre officials is, as stated previously, a guide for planning. Each phase may be advanced or delayed according to the time required for its completion by the groups concerned. For example, from the time a choice of location is made by the Board of Directors, the legal work entailed with civic government approval is expected to take 3 to 4 months. the Architect's design and working drawings will require 3 to 4 months, and the construction period is given as 5 to 7 months.

The Directors do not feel at this time that there will be any appreciable delays that will require a change of the final completion date set for March 1962.

Local Nisei Awarded Japan Arts Scholarship

Walter T. Sunahara, 24, Toronto Nisei artist now touring European countries received word in Holland that the Japanese Government has accepted his application for scholarship to study at the University of Tokyo.

He will be given living allowance, free tuition and the opportunity to study Japanese art for a period of two years.

Sunahara was born in Vancouver and was relocated to London, Ontario where he completed his high school education. He began oil painting studies in Toronto where his family now resides.

He will sail directly from London, England to Japan in May to enter university.

Venereal Disease Rise Among Japan's Teens Doesn't Worry Them

TOKYO.—Not only is the venereal disease rate high among Japanese teenagers, but the youths do not seem to care when they have it, a Japanese physician declared.

Dr. Hiroji Sakaguchi said that in 20 years of practice before the war only two teenage V.D. patients came to him for treatment, whereas now he treats three or four cases a week.

"Most of them are attending junior colleges or high schools. Even girls do not show any sign of regret or shame when I discover the disease," he said.

The doctor, a Harvard graduate who took training at the Mayo Brothers Clinic, called for a united campaign by government officials, the press and parents to "teach teen-agers the seriousness of the disease."

'I Wasn't Drinking'

TOKYO. — Japanese tipplers soon may be chewing their favorite drink—sake (rice wine).

Scientists at the government experimental brewing station say they have succeeded in perfecting a sake "paste" which can be packed in tubes or which could be made into chewing gum or caramels.

The paste would contain an alcoholic content of about 30 per cent which, when mixed with water, could produce a drink as strong as a glass of the pure rice wine that Japanese drinkers sip.

It's Understandable

TOKYO.—A machine has been perfected in Japan to translate a simple English sentence into Japanese. The Mitsubushi Electric Manufacturing Company has built the machine, which can perform the translating feat within 30 seconds. By changing the vocabulary in the machine, any language can be translated. It can also be transformed to act as an electrical computer.

Greenwood Miss is Named to Head Church Group

GREENWOOD, B.C. — St. Columba United Church CGIT Group held their annual meeting and election of officers earlier this month in the Church.

Judy Fukui was elected president in place of last year's president Janice Carefoot and Linda Kleman was named vice-president, a position which has been empty since Sandra Joyce moved away.

Ruth Berg surrendered the secretary's duties to Setsuko Hamaguchi and Elaine Oyama took over the treasurer's position from Doreen Zahnd.

Social Committee elected for the coming year is Bonnie Haines, Wendy Hamaguchi and Doreen Jeffrey.

Cheryl Haines and Patsy Savage will attend the Convention in Creston during the holidays as delegates from this group.

Three girls will graduate from CGIT this year, Sandra McArthur, Doreen Zahnd and Ruth Berg, all having belonged for five years.

Perhaps Easy Cancer Detecting Test Found

SAN FRANCISCO.—"The goal of medical men everywhere—a blood test to detect cancer—may have been reached by a 53-year-old Japanese doctor," according to Charles Einstein, San Francisco Examiner columnist.

Einstein, who writes the "top of the town" column for the Examiner, said his information came from a "doctor of impressive reputation and ability (who) . . . is newly returned from a trip around the world. . ."

He said the doctor who gave him the information, whom he did not name, spent some time with Dr. [illegible] Kosaki, director of biochemistry at the Mie prefectural medical school at Tsu, a city south of Nagoya.

"Its apparent results so far, after an impressive trial series: 100 per cent accurate.

"Where the patient is concerned the test is swift, simple and painless.

"It is not only potentially a method to prove whether suspected cancer exists far more quickly, and easily in many cases less expensively than any of the techniques now in use but—much more important in a disease where time is of the essence—it can show cancer long before any recognized symptom appears.

"For the time being its mass application is not possible. This is because extremely careful and specific training has to go into "running" test—that is, handling the blood sample in the laboratory so as not to interfere with the particular evidence being sought.

"Just as an amateur cannot sift for diamonds, so the investigator must be taught what to look for here and how to look for it."

Dr. Kosaki, who has been engaged in this kind of research for 29 years, has been among those discovering that abnormal phospholipide (fat substance) is present in cancer cells but not in normal tissue.

"Wholly independent research enterprises by Dr. Bertio Bjorglund of Stockholm and by the M.D. Anderson Hospital of Houston similarly pinpointed this difference between malignant and healthy cells.

"Armed with this evidence, Dr. Kosaki set about to spot this known sign of malignancy in the blood.

"In this first series, over a period of three years, doing nothing more to the patient than drawing 10 cc's of blood from the arm, he found cancer in 1000 people. Among them were:

". . . Persons who obviously had the disease;

". . . Persons who showed no signs of cancer but developed it in recognizable form later on;

". . . Persons who had exhibited signs of the disease but on investigation (often surgery learned

山手樹一郎

「よしよし、表へ出たら馬を見つけてやるから、もう少しの辛抱だ」

時馬喰の馬が表に十三頭つないである。傳八郎はそれを借りて大阪へ走るつもりだ。

が、表へ出ると、その十三頭の馬はほとんど手綱を解かれ、往來をぶらぶらしている。せっせと手綱を解いているのは天狗小僧の市松だ。馬喰番が二人ついていたはずだが、一人は傳八郎を裏庭へ取次ぎ、殘る一人も騒動に氣を取られて、番を怠ったのだろう。

——そうか、市松は馬を追い散らすはずだな。

早く見て取った傳八郎は、手近の栗毛のくつわをつかみ、

「太夫、後につづけ」

わざとお菊にはかまわずひらりとそれに飛びのった。執念の市松が目の前にいるから、今はお菊も甘ったれてぐずぐずはして居られない。たちまち一頭をつかまえて、あざやかに馬上の人となる。

市松はじろりと振り返ったが、口は利かず、最後の一頭を手綱を解いて、鼻面を裏庭の方へ向けると、

「そうれ——」

りして、ひひんと跳ねあがりながら、一散に走り出す。その邊に遊んでいたのが、みんなそれにつられて驅け出した。

同時に傳八郎は馬首を尼ケ崎の方へ向けて、馬腹に角を入れていた。

お菊の馬がそれにつづいたから、おびただしい蹄の音が一度に騒然と宿中にひろがって行く。

「あっ、おのれ、なにをする」

あわてて飛び出して來た馬喰番の二人が、仰天して顔色を變えた時には、市松もまた一頭をわがものにして、にやりと冷笑をしながら、たちまち二騎の砂煙のあとを追い出す。全くあっという間の、手っ取り早い仕事だった。

草津の宿

鶴丸さまの一行は豫定通り三日目の夕方近く、東海道へ踏み出して草津の宿へかかった。

明石から大阪までの船の旅は、幸い海がおだやかだったのと、大阪へ着くまではもう敵に追われる心配がなかったのとで、主從四人安心して晝夜來の疲れを休めることができた。

「親船に乗った氣持という

そんな冗談口を口にして、

「とにかく我々は淺香さんに感謝すべきだ」

と、心からつけ足すことを忘れなかった。

天皇御歌の御難

◇話が少し古くなつて恐縮だが、宮中では年の始めのお祝いとして、全國から短歌を詠進させ、天皇、皇后はじめ、皇族方も自作と稱するもの披露するナラワシになつている。――ラジオ放送によると、天皇のは御歌本來が拙合いで六ぺんも繰り返し讀みあげる。いともノンビリしたものであるが、その本年の「天皇[illegible]

芽をふき出した櫻木
ハイパークでまず順調成長

東京都がトロント市へ「日系人をよく世話してくれている」というので寄贈した櫻苗木は市内ハイパークのグレネディア・ポンドほとりに植えつけられたが、このごろの暖氣でこれらの櫻木も葉芽を出して元氣なところをみせているが、ポンドに眞近く植えられた苗木は成績不良で枯死したのもかなりある。なかには無殘にも若い枝やミキが手折られたのもかなりあつたが、全体的には發育良好といえるだろう。來年あたりから、このポンドをかこんで美しい日本櫻が咲き匂い、トロント市の名所となることだろう。

向、昨春右の櫻輸送につきそつて來た新堀林業氏は櫻木の生長ぶりに關心を持ちつづけていて、最近安齋蓮治氏に來た手紙にもその事が記してあり、四月初めにはトロント市公園局のベル氏からの連絡で農事試驗場のウイルク氏が訪日して特に櫻の害虫を調べているとあつた。

Japanese Television Stations Are Televising Night Baseball Games in Color with Success

TOKYO.—Three Japanese television stations are broadcasting experimental color programs ranging from night baseball games to popular sword-swinging Japanese dramas.

Clarity of the programs has impressed foreign experts who visited television studios here.

Postal services Minister Haruhiko Uetake said formal licenses for full-scale color telecasts will be issued as soon as possible. Formal permission for color telecasts is awaiting a decision on whether Japan will adopt the American six-megacycle standard common to Europe.

Eight Japanese electrical equipment manufacturers have turned out color television receiving sets while the technical staff of the semi-government Japanese Broadcasting Corporation, NHK, recently completed a color television camera.

TV Begin in '53

It was in February, 1953, that NHK, the national corporation's network, first started black-and-white television programs. Most families at that time were unable to buy sets on their budgets and the coffee shops, bars and stores where sets were installed always were packed.

Today, the number of television sets in Japan is estimated at 3,000,000.

Japanese manufacturers turned out a record total of 256,604 sets last August. Of these, 14-inch sets accounted for 97 per cent.

Seventy-seven television stations, comprising 38 NHK stations and 39 commercial stations, now are being operated in Japan. A total of 109 stations soon are expected to be operating.

Nakagawa to Hurl Ball In London League

LONDON, Ont.—The London Free Press reports that the London Diamonds of the Senior Intercounty League, formerly the London Majors, are trying hard to really bring baseball back in a big way. The club was advised that the newest import to the team would come direct from Tokyo.

The Oriental diamond star is Doug Nakagawa, a pitcher for the University of Tokyo who plans to attend the University of Western Ontario next fall.

The youngster happens to be the brother of Frank Nakagawa, the genial proprietor of Hook's Restaurant here and the vice-president of the London ball club.

Doug plans to enter engineering after finishing his studies at the University of Tokyo. He has a good reputation as a hurler in his native land and has seen some action in exhibition games played by Japanese clubs against touring major league teams. He is a big fellow standing six feet tall and weighing 185 pounds.

Young Obokata Honored As Top Puck Handler

LONDON, Ont.—More than 800 parents and hockey players and celebrities including the mayor of London were in attendance at a recently held Presentation Banquet of the London Suburban Minor Hockey League.

In the awards for Pee Wee Division which was composed of six teams, Leonard Obokata was awarded the Gilchrist Lumber Trophy for the Most Sportsmanlike Player. He was also presented with a hockey stick for being in the 10 points and over scoring Champion.

In introducing him for the trophy, the chairman commented, "here is a young fellow, a fellow who is different from all of you in that he is a Japanese Canadian who, with his great sportsmanship, was a great asset to his team, the Glendale Lions."

Leonard's record for the season shows 27 points, 5 assists, 11 goals and 1 penalty. He was third in the league for points and tied for second in goals. In the semi-final round of the Ontario Hockey Association playoffs, Leonard scored his team's only two goals. His team however, lost out.

Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa—Actor, Actress

By LARRY S. TAJIRI

A REMARKABLE fact is that the first two motion picture stars of Japanese ancestry — Sessue Hayakawa and Tsuru Aoki, both of whom got their starts in Hollywood nearly a half-century ago—are still active in films. Hayakawa is a co-star of Walt Disney's "Swiss Family Robinson," filmed in the West Indies, while Miss Aoki returned to Hollywood the other day after a long absence in Japan.

Tsuru Aoki was the first Japanese actress in American movies. Back in 1914 she and Hayakawa were co-starred in "Typhoon." She made more than a score of films including the 1916 "Alien Souls", produced by Jesse Lasky in which she played opposite Earle Fox. Later, she became a contract star for Paramount.

Miss Aoki is now back in Hollywood to play the role of an Issei woman, Mother Une, in Atlantic Pictures' "Hell to Eternity," now being shot in Southern California after location work was completed in Okinawa. This is the Guy Gabaldon story, the true-life tale of a tough Mexican American teenager, befriended by a Japanese American family in Los Angeles who becomes a Medal of Honor Marine hero in World War II. Gabaldon's feat was that of "capturing" more than — 1,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians during the battle of Saipan.

Gabaldon accomplished his capture during that incident on Saipan when hundreds of Japanese committed suicide by leaping off the cliffs into the ocean. The Marine used the Japanese language he learned while living with Une family in L. A.'s Boyle Heights district.

The role of Gabaldon is being played in the film by Jeff Hunter and Hunter has been coached in the Japanese language by Bob Okazaki who has had more than a hundred film roles in Hollywood since his first, which was in a silent film back in the 1920s. Okazaki was dialogue coach for Marlon Brando during the making of "Sayonara" three years ago.

"I am now also coaching Richard Eyer to say a few words in Japanese," Okazaki said the other day in Los Angeles. Eyer plays Gabaldon as a teenager while Hunter portrays him as an adult.

"Last week we had a scene in which Father Une (played by Teru Shimada) is under the family jalopy trying to fix it," Okazaki said. "He reaches out from under the car and asks in Japanese, 'hand me the wrench,' to Guy. Eyer as Guy gives him a wrench but Father Une wants the smaller sized wrench so he replies testily, 'No, not this one, the small one.'

"The script calls for Eyer to answer 'Demo chisai hoote yuwanakatta desho. Tada renchi wo yokose te yutta desho.' Eyer is then supposed to turn to one of the Une sons and to say in English: 'He didn't say he wanted a small one, just wrench, is all.'

"Right now, Richard Eyer is working on that line, and is beginning to sound better than most Nisei," Okazaki said.

HAYAKAWA is a member of the cast of "Hell to Eternity" (which may be released under a differrent title because the picture may be confused with Columbia's 1953 Acadmy Award winner, "From Here to Eternity.") Other featured roles are taken by Miiko Taka, who had the lead opposite Brando in "Sayonara", and by Michi Kobi.

THE OTHER night in Denver the country's newest hotel, the $26.5 million Danver Hilton, was opened with a $100 a couple diner and ball which had as its theme, "Japanese Fantasy."

The grand ballroom was decorated with cherry blossoms and an effort was made to carry out the theme in the menu which featured "pheasant supreme, sakura style" (which tasted like any other style of roast pheasant) and a dessert called "Mount Fuji" which turned out to be a flaming concoction made of vanilla ice cream, cocoanut and brandy, all served in a half a cocoanut. The inevitable fortune cookies provided the finale.

Main feature of the inaugural was the Oriental revue which featured Takeuchi Keigo and his Imperial Japanese dancers and the Kim Sisters.

The Japanese dancers, some of whom we'd suspect are Nisei although they affect Japanese dress and speech even offstage, have just completed a most successful engagement at Chicago's Edgewater Beach hotel and came into Denver for a single performance. Theirs is a theatrically effective presentation, a sort of colorful blend of Japanese folk dances and Rodgers and Hammerstein. The company of 12 climaxed their show with a Japanese ballet which included a display of samurai swordsmanship.

The Kims, three young girls from Seoul, are fabulous. A singing trio, they also play all of 22 instruments from saxophones to guitars and drums. With top hat and cane, they strut to an oldtimer like "Bill Bailey" before wailing the lament of "Tom Dooley." There is little that is Oriental about their presentation, but as entertainment they are a considerable success. —Pacific Citizen found on both sides. But the Japanese have always chosen the former beauty that is simple beauty, and this was an intelligent course for Japan to follow, since so many different cultural elements from the continent exerted influence on Japan. Sometimes this beauty seems primitive but we must understand there is a simplicity of high aesthetical value which is attained and perhaps distilled from the beauty of complex forms.

Japanese Arts

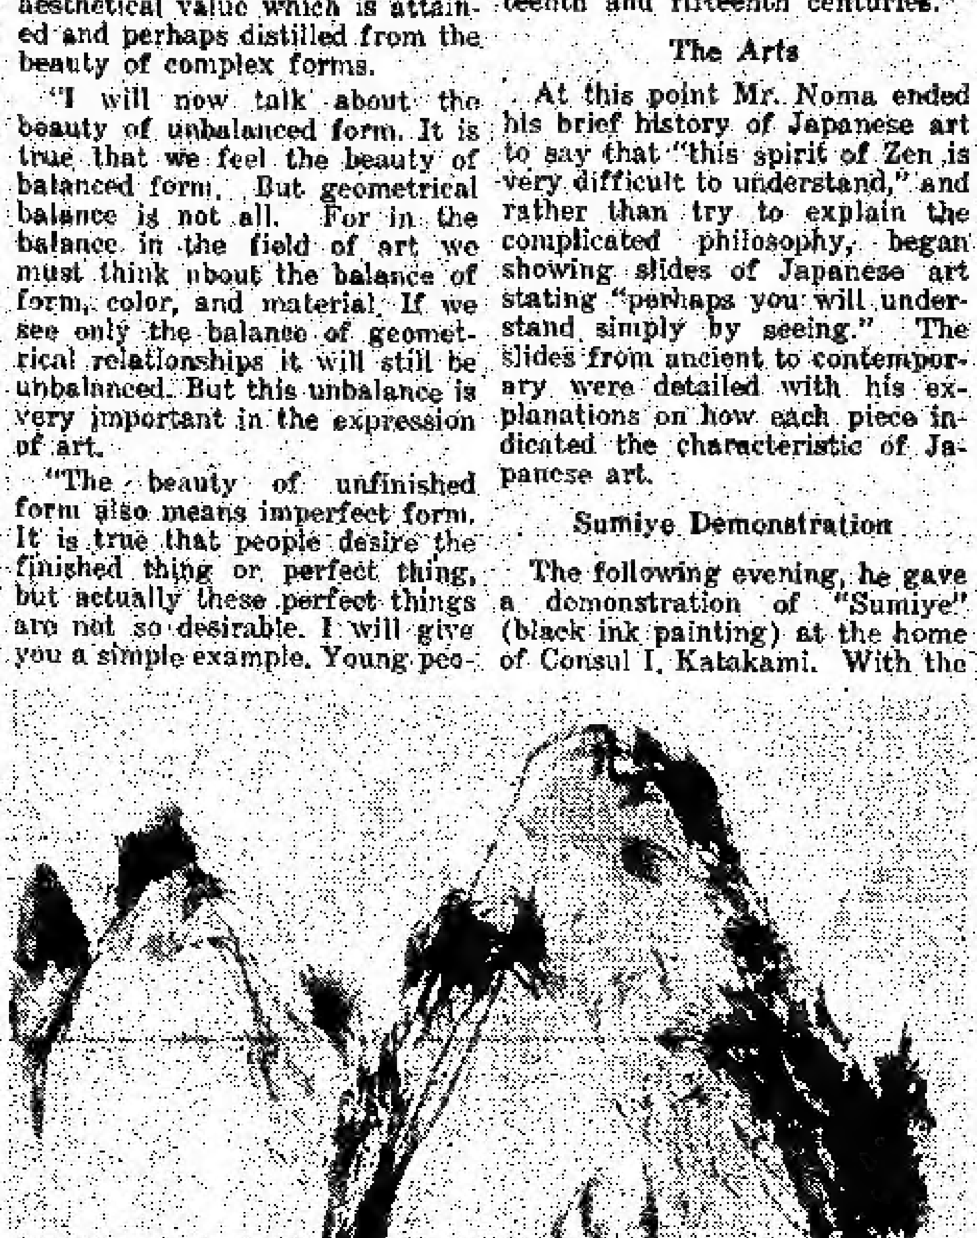
"I will now talk about the beauty of unbalanced form. It is true that we feel the beauty of balanced form. But geometrical balance is not all. For in the balance in the field of art we must think about the balance of form, color, and material. If we see only the balance of geometrical relationships it will still be unbalanced. But this unbalance is very important in the expression of art.

"The beauty of unfinished form also means imperfect form. It is true that people desire the finished thing or perfect thing, but actually these perfect things are not so desirable. I will give you a simple example. Young people look for a perfect husband or wife. Of course this is only an idea. If such an idea were realized, I think they would be unhappy. Real happiness will be found in reconciling the imperfections of husband and wife. In the field of art, finished or perfect form will not really touch people. Japanese who wish to enjoy art in their lives look for the unfinished or unperfect form.



"These three points came from one important Japanese characteristic. This is appreciation of nature or the love of nature. The Japanese make the effort in art but recognize some higher value which goes beyond their efforts. This characteristic does not mean that the human effort is denied but rather, it shows piety to nature. This characteristic came from everyday life in ancient Japan and was further strengthened by the spirit of Zen in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries."

The Arts

At this point Mr. Noma ended his brief history of Japanese art to say that "this spirit of Zen is very difficult to understand," and rather than try to explain the complicated philosophy, began showing slides of Japanese art stating "perhaps you will understand simply by seeing." The slides from ancient to contemporary were detailed with his explanations on how each piece indicated the characteristic of Japanese art.

Sumiye Demonstration

The following evening, he gave a demonstration of "Sumiye" (black ink painting) at the home of Consul I. Katakami. With the kind consent of Mr. Noma, Consul and Mrs. Katakami, Vice-Consul Kawamoto, arrangements were made to have 15 people, mostly students of Miss Marjorie Pigott, Naga painter, attend a special demonstration of Sumiye painting. I stayed to see more of his work even after other guests left. When he spoke in Japanese, he became more eloquent and even told us secrets of his works on pleasure painting. One of his paintings was presented to Mrs. Katakami entitled "Still Life of a Strawberry" which can be viewed at the Consul's home on the occasion of the Japanese Emperor's birthday, April 29th, when Open House will be held. Two paintings which were presented to me, "Face" and "Mountain and Stream," took only two or three minutes to paint.

Cancer Tests

the suspected area was benign; shown to be positive by the blood test, they proved to have cancer, generally in some other area of the body than the one that had been suspected;

". . . Deceased persons who apparently or actually had died from some other cause; tested during autopsy they were shown to have had cancer.

"Truly exciting in this check for the test's accuracy was the other side of the coin—the impressive number of people whose tests showed negative.

"Not one of them has contracted the disease!

"While the value of a simple and sure diagnostic test for cancer is hard to overstate, Dr. Kosaki—whose chief obstacle has a familiar ring; the lack of suitable research funds to enlarge his work and speed its completion—has helped to turn up something else that has provided other doctors, engaged in the treatment rather than the research end of cancer medicine, with a new technique.

A chemical in the body known as porphryn should be found in all enzymes that use oxygen. Its function is to combat toxicity. The findings were that porphryn was not present in cancer cells. Dr. A. Vannotti, a Swiss authority on porphryn, reported for example that in leukemia, cells do not produce it.

"And Dr. Kosaki found something else: cancer cells "like" porphryn—in medical lingo, they "have an affinity" for it.

"So the treatment has been to inject a porphryn mercury complex intravenously. Greedy cancer cells reach out to grab the porphryn they don't have—and it turns around and smacks them, cancelling out the harmfull work they do by nullifying their toxic effects.

"It's not to be regarded as a cure, but at the same time one is not surprised to learn that some especially good results from this treatment have been found in people whose cases of cancer are far advanced—for in them that "affinity" is greater.

"Advanced cancers 'overeat' the porphryn that hurts them the way a fat man overeats the food that hurts him.
